Linac is quarried from a bedrock quarry in Turkey. This linear-viewed marble is white in color, with gray veining, and adds a dramatic and elegant touch to any installation. Due to the qualities of the stone, the slabs are book-matched; meaning slab one and slab two will be cut and polished to create a mirror image of each other. These are then kept in sequence, which allows for a consistent flow in pattern. When installing white marble, you must use a white thinset, using grey thinset will leave trowel lines and could stain the marble. It's possible for this white marble to have small white spots that look like stun marks. These white spots happen naturally within the marble and are inherent to most white marbles. It's also possible to have tiny pin holes that do not get filled by the polyester resin during processing. As a natural stone product it is recommended that it be sealed to extend its longevity.
