Dolomite White is a white marble quarried from a Bedrock quarry on an island off the coast of Turkey. Blocks are moved to the factory on the mainland for processing. Dolomite White is a Dolomitic rock and is one of the most dense white marbles. As such, it is very durable and suitable for a wide variety of installations. It has subtle, white linear veining that gracefully accentuates its white background, giving the material an elegant appeal. When installing white marble you must use a white thinset. Using grey thinset will leave trowel lines and could stain the marble. It's possible for this white marble to have tiny pin holes or small white spots that look like stun marks. These white spots happen naturally within the marble and are inherent to most white marbles. Piece to piece variation in shade or color are inherent in all natural stone products; therefore, when installing natural stone tile, it is recommended to mix tiles from several boxes at a time during installation to achieve the best range of color.
